

POJ -A Research Platform

Orthodontics plays a crucial role in improving the oral health and overall well-being of individuals. As a rapidly evolving field, it is imperative to have a platform that fosters the exchange of knowledge, research, and advancements in orthodontics within Pakistan. The Pakistan Orthodontics Journal (POJ) emerges as a significant publication, offering a valuable resource for orthodontic professionals and researchers in the country.

The POJ serves as a medium to promote and showcase research conducted by local orthodontic professionals and researchers. By providing a dedicated space for their work, the journal encourages the development of evidence-based practices that are specific to Pakistan's population. This focus on local research addresses the unique challenges and needs of patients, ultimately improving the quality of orthodontic treatment provided across the country.

Collaboration is vital for the growth and advancement of any field, and orthodontics is no exception. The POJ serves as a platform for professionals to connect, share ideas, and collaborate on research projects. By facilitating such collaborations, the journal fosters a sense of community among orthodontic professionals in Pakistan, leading to enhanced knowledge exchange and improved patient care.

The POJ maintains a rigorous peer-review process, ensuring that only high-quality research and scholarly articles are published. This commitment to excellence guarantees that the journal remains a trusted source of information for orthodontic professionals, educators, and students. By upholding these standards, the POJ contributes to the overall advancement of orthodontics in Pakistan.

In addition to research articles, the POJ also publishes review articles, case reports, and clinical techniques, providing a comprehensive range of educational resources. These articles serve as a valuable tool for orthodontic professionals, enabling them to stay up to date with the latest developments in the field. By promoting continuing education and professional development, the journal contributes to the overall improvement of orthodontic practices in Pakistan.

While the POJ primarily focuses on local research, it also encourages international collaboration and welcomes submissions from researchers and professionals worldwide. This global perspective enriches the journal's content and allows for the exchange of ideas and experiences beyond national boundaries. By fostering international collaboration, the POJ contributes to the global advancement of orthodontics.

The Pakistan Journal of Orthodontics is an essential publication that plays a pivotal role in advancing orthodontics in Pakistan. By promoting local research, facilitating collaboration, maintaining high standards of peer-reviewed excellence, and providing educational resources, the journal contributes to the overall improvement of orthodontic practices in the country. With its commitment to staying at the forefront of orthodontic knowledge, the POJ serves as a valuable resource for orthodontic professionals, researchers, and educators, ultimately benefiting patients and the field of orthodontics as a whole.

Col Iffat Batool (R)
BDS, FCPS, MCPS (HPE), MCPS (HCSM), MOrth (RCSEd UK)