

In the Light of Her Love: A Tribute to My Beloved Wife (Prof. Dr. Rabia Bilal)

In the stillness of these days, memories cascade like gentle whispers, weaving a tapestry of love and loss, and I find solace in the pages of our shared journey. My beloved wife Dr. Professor Rabia Bilal, who recently departed this world, was not merely my better half; she was the radiant light that illuminated my path. She was my mentor, my teacher, my best friend, and the love of my life.

Her success was not merely her own; it was a testament to our shared journey. I celebrated each triumph as if it were my own, for her victories were a reflection of our unity, our partnership forged in the fires of love and devotion. She taught me the true meaning of selflessness, always putting my needs before her own, and in doing so, she exemplified the essence of a life partner.

As I reflect on the chapters we shared, I am filled with gratitude for the precious moments we were blessed to experience together. From the quiet moments of shared laughter to the exhilarating highs of our adventures, each memory is etched into the fabric of my soul, a cherished reminder of the love we shared.

Dr. Rabia was not merely an ideal soul mate and friend but an educator; she was a beacon of inspiration. Students revered her for the rare combination of a loving attitude, profound knowledge, and an exceptional teaching methodology. She had an innate ability to ignite curiosity, fostering a genuine passion for learning in her students.

What set her apart was not just her academic prowess but the respect she commanded in both teaching and her professional endeavors. Dr. Rabia's achievements reached beyond borders; she achieved the distinction of being amongst the youngest to attain professorship and consultant ranks outside Pakistan. Her meteoric rise was not just a testament to her brilliance but also to her unwavering commitment to her field.

Tragically, her untimely departure left a void that can never be filled. Yet, her memory lives on through the countless lives she touched. Dr. Rabia's legacy is not just in the textbooks or research papers but in the hearts and minds of those fortunate enough to have known her. In the brevity of her time, she managed to enrich the world with her wisdom, leaving an enduring legacy that transcends borders and time.

Dr Bilal Arjumand
Assistant Professor
Qassim University, Saudi Arabia.